ABSTRACT :

At the advent of the new millennium, we note a strong trend towards increasing attention to the concerns and issues about information and communication technologies (ICT). Throughout society, the government of the Philippines has recently passed several laws that aim to provide the optimal environment for adoption of ICT. This ICT policy is known as PUP and has as a result been recognized as a leader in ICT use in the Philippines. Here this Paper explores and evaluates these PUP initiatives in both the traditional mode and in the open mode.
